

SCHOOLS PROGRAMME

Responding in the Moment

A fully funded training equipping school & education staff with the skills and confidence to support students through anticipatory grief and bereavement.

What the training offers

- Understanding of anticipatory grief and bereavement.
- Builds knowledge and confidence to respond in emotional moments.
- Practical tools to create a compassionate, whole-school approach.
- Addresses complex needs, cultural inclusion and neurodiverse support.
- Aligns with Relationship, Sex and Health Education (RSHE) statutory guidance.

46,300

Children and young people face parental bereavement each year in the UK.

1 in 29

Children experience a significant bereavement in their childhood.

1 in 2

People will be diagnosed with cancer at some point in their lifetime.

Who can sign up

Open to all staff working in schools and education settings in the UK.

Sign up today to give yourself and your school community the tools and confidence to support every child and young person whenever they need it most.

How to sign up

Visit www.ruthstraussfoundation.com/schools or scan the QR code to register.

